or get more intimately involved in the group's decision-making process.

The Young Philanthropists will host three annual social events that feature food, drinks, live entertainment and promise to be great fun.

The group's first social event is May 5 at Guacamole's restaurant in celebration of Cinco de Mayo. During this time, young philanthropists will learn more about the organization, indulge in great food and beverages from Mexico and the Southwest and enjoy an evening of mingling and dancing.

So, if you've got giving back on the brain and have been trying to figure out the best way to do so, give the Young Philanthropists a call, they'll be happy to help.
